Sir:

I hope that you have received my RCE and at least you have scheduled to read it along with my previously submitted reply to the 1st office action.

I would like to ask you to also address the following two points.

- 1) If my arguments on RCE #6d) at page 38 [and #6 in general] would be acceptable to you, then I think the original broader term "antidepressants" would be less restrictive and more preferable in the claims. If allowed, I would still prefer to use that broader term of "antidepressants". In case you would only allow the currently amended claims than please let me know that the old broader term "antidepressants" would be still not allowed for the reasons you have specified. If it would be allowed please also let me know that too so I could consider amending them back to that original broader term "antidepressants". Thank you.
- 2) Although from our specification it is clear that whenever dosing range was specified it meant per day (q. d.); I have noted that in claims 36, 95, 108, 122, 123, and 130 the per day was not included despite of being seen by my former attorneys (and the PTO). It is always good to be clear in patent claims, and therefore I would like to request that you make a mention that I would be allowed to amend these claims to add/insert the "per day" after the:
"...and the effective amount" per day "...is..." in the aforementioned claims.

Thank you.

Respectfully submitted
